THE CHARTER.

The most important election in the history of Phoenix will be held next Monday. The taxpayers of the city will be given an opportunity to express their opinion of the amendments to the city charter. Should it be rejected, the city will be compelled to operate during the next two years under the present insufficient charter which, however well it may have been adapted to the earlier needs of the city, would prove a damaging, if not actually ruinous obstacle to municipal prosperity.

The amendments have been prepared with great care; they were designed especially to meet the peculiar needs of Phoenix at this time and after a careful study of them it would be difficult to form a valid objection to even their less important features, while the more prominent ones most commend themselves to the earnest observer.

They are the result of not only judgment, but experience and a knowledge of the wishes of the people acquired at the election last year, when a charter was justly and overwhelmingly turned down. Even that charter was a decided improvement upon the present one. It may be said that its good points overbalanced its bad ones, but that is an admission that it was imperfect.

The imperfections have been wholly removed in the amendments which are to be submitted to the tax payers on June 18.

The chief objection to the former charter, was that it was calculated to give the city council extraordinary and dangerous power. In the one now ready for consideration, the power is shorn to the greatest possible extent, consistent with a good and progressive city government.

Copies of the amendments may be obtained at the office of the city recorder. It should be the duty of every man entitled to a vote to make a careful study of them and also of the former proposed charter, whose unobjectionable features are still left in force by the amendments and will therefore also be submitted for consideration.

It is seldom that voters are given an opportunity to attend an election whose result will so directly and so seriously affect them. In the choice of officials, should the choice be an unwise one, it may be remedied at the end of the year. In this case, the city must abide by its decision until after another legislative session. At an election of officials the result to the voter usually consists in the gratification or disappointment of a party of factional pride. In this case the result will be great financial gain or financial loss to every man entitled to a vote.

LUCKY PLAYERS.

An incident occurred in Iowa recently which will naturally cause believers in providential interference some embarrassment. A railroad train was robbed and the next morning two strangers were arrested and locked up for the crime. On precisely what grounds the arrest was made is not known but it is said the authorities were sure that sufficient evidence was obtainable to hold them for trial. In the mean time the prisoners were calmly confident.

Did they intend to prove an alibi by the members of the church they happened to be attending the previous night? Not much. At the preliminary hearing they easily proved that while the railroad train was being held up they were sitting in a poker game.

Neither probably held a royal flush or four aces; perhaps not even a winning hand but in the draw they got something which just at that particular time was of greater value to them.

Had these gentlemen been in bed or had they been unnoticed attendants at religious service or quiet occupants of a reading room or had they been at that critical time in any way unostentatiously moral and respectable they would probably have been unable to furnish the necessary alibi.

This, however, is something that may not occur again in a thousand years and cannot therefore be advanced as a statistical argument in favor of the great American game of poker and immorality.

The Herald last night was guilty of a groundless attack upon Rev. Mr. Vaughan and other ministers of the gospel, who took a natural interest in the proceedings against the man Timmis for cruelty toward his little boy. The Herald writer appears to have gained an impression shared by no one else namely that the interference was made in behalf of the inhuman or weak-minded father rather than in that of the little boy. Timmis' punishment is regarded by the justice and the district attorney as sufficient while the condition of the little boy is vastly improved by the interest taken in the case by the ministers.

DR. MILES' MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

You will remember the condition I was in five years ago, when I was afflicted with a combination of diseases, and thought there was no help for me. I tried all kinds of medicine, and scores of eminent physicians. My nerves were prostrated, producing dizziness, heart trouble and all the ills that make life miserable. I commenced to take DR. MILES' NERVE TONIC and in three months I was perfectly cured. In my travels each year, when I see the thousands of physical wrecks, suffering from nervous prostration, taking prescriptions from local physicians who have no knowledge of their case, and whose death is certain, I feel like going to them and saying, "GET DR. MILES' NERVE TONIC AND BE CURED." In my profession, where there are so many overworked men, I feel that the prevention and nervous exhaustion, brought on by the character of the business engaged in, I would recommend "MILES' NERVE TONIC" as a sure cure for all suffering from these causes.
